I. Introduction

The immigration policies of the federal government have sparked fear in the lives of many immigrant families. Many families have expressed concerns about their children: What will happen to my children if I am detained or deported? Indeed, one study from 2011 revealed that as many as 5,100 children were in the foster care system due to the deportation of one or both parents.¹ When Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) detains parents, ICE does not take responsibility for the safety and well-being of children—even U.S. citizen children—left behind. This resource guide is designed to help families create legal documents to increase the likelihood that the care of their children will be handled in accordance with their wishes, in the event of an emergency such as immigration detention or deportation.

Immigrant families face many difficult choices if the detention or deportation of a parent occurs. Each family must make its own decisions. Some parents will bring their children with them to their country of origin, and can do so even if the children are U.S. citizens. Other parents will arrange for their children to remain in the U.S. with a trusted relative or caregiver. Still others may choose to change their plans after a short period of time.

There is no single easy document or legal route under current California law for immigrant parents who wish for their children to remain in the U.S. if deportation or detention separates their family. Ultimately, the most important steps that parents can take are not legal in nature, and involve speaking with individuals they would trust to care for the children, including children in difficult and painful conversations about the possibility of deportation, and notifying relevant institutions (e.g., schools, doctors, etc.) with emergency caregivers' names and phone numbers. This guide is intended to provide information, and should not be read as providing individualized legal advice. Please consult with a trusts & estates, family and/or immigration law attorney for further guidance.

This guide is aimed primarily at parents who plan to designate another person to care for their children who are under the age of 18 in the U.S. When considering who to designate as a caregiver, guardian, or person with informal custody, parents must take into account a person’s reliability, trustworthiness, and whether they are also at risk for deportation and detention. It discusses three legal options that are available for parents who plan for their children to remain in the U.S.: (1) Caregiver Authorization Affidavit; (2) Power of Attorney; and (3) Guardianship. Each option provides different functions, and there are some important distinctions to understand amongst them.

Under California law, a biological parent retains custodial rights over their child, and the existence of a Power of Attorney or Caregiver Authorization Affidavit will not, on its own, prevent even a parent with a history of domestic violence from seeking custody of a child. Parents concerned with domestic violence are highly encouraged to seek the assistance of an attorney. Cases involving domestic or family violence may require more sophisticated legal interventions and plans not addressed in this guide.

What are the Differences between a Caregiver’s Authorization Affidavit, a Power of Attorney for the Care of a Minor Child, and a Guardianship?

A Caregiver Authorization Affidavit is recognized under California state law (Family Code section 6552), and acknowledged by schools and many medical providers to give an adult other than a parent the ability to enroll a child in school and consent to school-related medical treatment. If the caregiver is also a relative, a Caregiver Authorization Affidavit permits the caregiver to make all medical care decisions for the child. Although non-relatives can also sign a Caregiver Authorization Affidavit, non-relatives can only consent to school-related medical care, and may be required to obtain a foster care license.

A Caregiver Authorization Affidavit requires a sworn statement that the child lives with the caregiver. Even while Caregiver Authorization Affidavit is in effect, the parents retain all legal custody rights. The Caregiver Authorization Affidavit can be completed by the caregiver even if the caregiver does not have access to the parents, and does not require involvement from the courts.

A Power of Attorney is similar, but not identical, to the Caregiver Authorization Affidavit. A parent can choose a particular person to care for their child by assigning a Power of Attorney to a trusted adult. Through a Power of Attorney, a parent can grant all rights given by a Caregiver Authorization Affidavit as well as the ability to do acts necessary to maintain the child’s customary standard of living. A Power of Attorney can also authorize the person to make financial decisions for a child. As with the Caregiver Authorization Affidavit, parents retain legal custody.

Powers of Attorney in California carry important risks and limitations, and should be used with caution. In California, a Power of Attorney cannot create a guardianship (even a temporary guardianship), and cannot transfer custody, even if the document contains a title suggesting that it can. (In other states, Powers of Attorney may be an appropriate way to create a temporary custody or guardianship, but that is not possible in California). Parents should be extremely cautious of service providers who offer to prepare such documents if they claim to contain the power to create a guardianship or custody, especially if charging high fees. Also, a Power of Attorney can transfer significant power to another individual (the "attorney-in-fact"), and families should be aware of the potential for abuse by the attorney-in-fact.

The parent(s) completes and signs the Power of Attorney. The parent(s) can also revoke a Power of Attorney. In the sample Power of Attorney form attached to this guide, the parent(s) can prepare the form and state that it only becomes effective in the event that the parent(s) live outside the U.S. or otherwise state in a separate document that they wish for the Power of Attorney to become effective.

Guardianship is a more formal process. It occurs when a court formally appoints a guardian to make legal decisions for and have legal custody of the child. When a court appoints a guardian, parents' rights are suspended (other than the right to visitation and the responsibility of child support) until the guardianship is terminated. The guardian is also legally liable for any wrongdoing by the child. After two years, courts will apply a presumption in favor of adoption, if the guardian wishes to adopt the child.

The court process associated with a guardianship can be time-consuming. Individuals wishing to explore a guardianship are encouraged to seek the assistance of an attorney.
I. Caregiver Authorization Affidavit

- What is a Caregiver Authorization Affidavit?

  In California, parents can arrange for a person who is willing to take care of their child to sign a Caregiver Authorization Affidavit. Under this affidavit, the caregiver declares under penalty of perjury that the child lives with the caregiver and that the caregiver is caring for the child. The Affidavit is valid for only one year.

  While the caregiver is not a legal guardian, the Affidavit gives caregivers who are a “qualified relatives” the ability to do two main things: (1) enroll the child in school, and (2) authorize medical care for the child.

- What is a “qualified relative”?

  Per Family Code Section 6550 and 6552, a “qualified relative” means: means a spouse, parent, stepparent, brother, sister, stepbrother, stepsister, half-brother, half-sister, uncle, aunt, niece, nephew, first cousin, or any person denoted by the prefix “grand” or “great,” or the spouse of any of the persons specified in this definition, even after the marriage has been terminated by death or dissolution. Qualified relatives must be 18 years or older.

- Can a non-relative complete the Caregiver Authorization Affidavit?

  Yes, a person who is not a “qualified relative” can be named in a Caregiver Authorization Affidavit. However, non-relatives may be required to obtain a foster care license. More information about obtaining a foster care license is available at http://www.oc4kids.com/adopt/fostercare/, (888) 871-KIDS, or Oc4kids@ssa.ocgov.com.

  Even if not required to obtain a foster care license, a non-relative’s powers are slightly limited. Non-relatives have the power to enroll the minor in school and some power to authorize school-related medical care, but not to authorize medical care that is not related to school. A qualified relative, by contrast, has the power to enroll the child in school, consent to school related medical treatment, and most other medical and dental treatments.
• Who fills out the Affidavit?

The caregiver—not the parents—should complete and sign the Caregiver Authorization Affidavit. The caregiver should only sign (and notarize, if possible) the form if the child is actually living with the caregiver. To prepare for an emergency, parents may wish to have the caregiver complete the form without signing or notarizing it, and parents may wish to keep a copy of the partially completed Affidavit.

• How can a parent show that they have consented to the Caregiver Authorization Affidavit?

Although state law does not require a written statement from a parent showing that they consent to the caregiver named in the Affidavit, parents may wish to prepare and sign a short letter indicating that they give permission to the person named in the Caregiver Authorization Affidavit. Such a letter may be particularly helpful if the caregiver is not a “qualified relative.” See the Appendix for a sample letter.

• Who should receive a copy of the Caregiver Authorization Affidavit so that the person chosen as the caregiver can carry out decisions for the child/children?

The child’s school and/or healthcare provider will need a copy of a Caregiver Authorization Affidavit so that the caregiver can make school and medical decisions for the child.

• Does the child have to live with the caregiver in order for the Caregiver Authorization Affidavit to be valid?

Yes. The child must live with the caretaker in order for the affidavit to be valid.

• How is the Caregiver Authorization Affidavit terminated?

The Caregiver Authorization Affidavit can be terminated in several ways. The Affidavit expires after one year, and can be renewed with the completion of another affidavit. The Affidavit also terminates if the child stops living with the designated caretaker. Finally, a parent can object to the continuation of the Caregiver Authorization Affidavit.
II. Power of Attorney

- What is a Power of Attorney?

In general, a Power of Attorney is a document that gives another person (the "attorney-in-fact") the legal authority to act on one’s behalf. Powers of Attorney can be used in a range of contexts, such as when arranging medical care or in property or business transactions.

- Can I use a Power of Attorney as a way of preparing for possible deportation?

Maybe. Powers of Attorney have not typically been used on a broad scale in the State of California by parents seeking to make child care arrangements. Some organizations in California have recommended against using Powers of Attorney to engage in emergency family planning for child care. Other organizations working with immigrant communities have begun to distribute Power of Attorney forms and hold clinics for parents who fear deportation or detention so that they can plan for the care of their minor children.

At the time of this guide’s publication, it remains unclear whether Powers of Attorney in the State of California will be an effective way of planning for immigration-related family emergencies. This guide does not contain a recommendation for or against the use of a Power of Attorney.

- What are the risks of using a Power of Attorney?

Families should understand that under California law, a Power of Attorney is not a perfect or simple family planning solution. If the goal is to plan for child care, then a Caregiver Authorization Affidavit may be sufficient for many families. Also, a Power of Attorney cannot create a guardianship or transfer custody (even if it claims to do so on the face of the document), and families should be aware of the risk of being misinformed about the authority contained in a Power of Attorney, especially if working with a service provider who seeks to charge a high rate to prepare such a document. Finally, depending on the content, a Power of Attorney can transfer a great deal of power to the attorney-in-fact, such as the power to make decisions related to property, taxes, and bank accounts, such that the potential for abuse exists.
Why might I want to prepare a Power of Attorney?

A Power of Attorney can supplement the Caregiver Authorization Affidavit, which only grants the power to enroll a child in school and authorize medical care (if a qualified relative) or school-related medical care (if a non-relative), requires the child to live with the caregiver, and may require non-relatives to obtain a foster care license. Guardianship may not present a realistic solution for some families given the involvement of the court system. And Powers of Attorney can be a way to transfer the power over one’s finances and property to a trusted individual.

Does a Power of Attorney grant custody?

No. A Power of Attorney does not transfer formal legal custody to that person. Only a state court can grant legal custody to a person. State law grants biological parents the right to custody over their children.

Who is the “Principal”? Who is the “Attorney-in-Fact” (and does that mean the person has to be an attorney)?

The parent(s) are the “principal”(s) in the Power of Attorney form. The person who is receiving permission from the parents to care for the minor child is referred to as an “attorney-in-fact” or “agent.” Despite the name, an “attorney-in-fact” does not have to be a licensed attorney, but can be any person over the age of 18 who the parents trust to exercise the responsibilities described in the Power of Attorney.

What rights does the sample Power of Attorney create for the caregiver?

Under the sample Power of Attorney that is attached, parents would be giving caregivers authority related to “personal and family maintenance.” The California Probate Code Section 4460 defines “personal and family maintenance” to give the attorney-in-fact the following powers:

- The ability to do the acts necessary to maintain the customary standard of living of the child (including providing living quarters);
- The ability to provide:
  - Funds for shelter, clothing, food, appropriate education, and other current living costs,
  - Payment for necessary medical, dental, and surgical care, hospitalization, and custodial care,

- Any provision made by the parents for automobiles or other means of transportation, including registering, licensing, insuring, and replacing them,
- Maintaining or opening charge accounts and open new accounts the agent considers desirable to accomplish a lawful purpose,
- Usual vacations and travel expenses,
- Payments incidental to the membership or affiliation of the principal in a church, club, society, order, or other organization and continue contributions to those organizations.

The sample Power of Attorney enclosed with this Guide also clarifies that the attorney-in-fact can authorize medical decisions for the child and can travel with them. Additional terms related to child care can be added to the “Special Instructions” section of the form.

- Is a court required to enforce the terms of a Power of Attorney?

  No. It is unlikely that a court would enforce or defer to a Power of Attorney if issues regarding custody of the child arise under state law. In addition, because the court is not required to enforce or defer to a Power of Attorney, the child could still be subject to dependency jurisdiction and/or foster care. Questions regarding court enforcement should be directed to an experienced family law attorney.

- When does a Power of Attorney go into effect?

  The effective date of a Power of Attorney depends on the type of document that is prepared. Unless otherwise indicated, a Power of Attorney will go into effect immediately, once the form is properly completed and the signature of the principal properly acknowledged through either notarization or the signature of two adults other than the attorney-in-fact. But parents concerned about the future of their children due to the risk of detention or deportation need not prematurely give power to another adult related to their children. In California, a Power of Attorney can be drafted to go into effect only if a certain event occurs in the future. (Such documents are also called “springing” Powers of Attorney).

The sample Power of Attorney in the Appendix contains suggested language that indicates that the powers in the document only become effective if neither parent is able to care for the child because they are living outside the U.S or if the parent signs a written declaration stating that they wish for the Power of Attorney to become effective (which could be signed from immigration detention).

- How is a Power of Attorney revoked or terminated?

  A person has the right to revoke or terminate a power of attorney at any time, as long as they are competent. The Revocation must be in writing and include a notarized signature.

- Do I need an Attorney to complete a Power of Attorney?

  An attorney is not required to complete the Power of Attorney. However, families may find it helpful to consult with an attorney to develop a Power of Attorney that best meets their needs. Note that sample power of attorney forms are free, and attorneys or service providers should not charge money for blank forms such as the one provided in this packet. Families should exercise caution when working with notarios, attorneys or service providers who attempt to charge high fees to prepare Powers of Attorney (especially Powers of Attorney that claim to create a guardianship or transfer custody), or any fees for the blank forms attached to this guide.

III. Guardianship

- What is a guardianship?

  Guardianship occurs when the court appoints an adult, who is not the child’s parents, to have legal and physical custody of the child. Parents still retain parental rights (such as right to visitation and the parent retains the responsibility of financial support – meaning the State can go after the parent for child support, particularly if the guardian is receiving child-only financial assistance), but they are suspended while the guardianship is in place. This means that parents still have their parental rights, but they are placed on hold pending a decision by the court that names a guardian for the child. Once appointed, the guardian holds legal rights and responsibilities to care for the child as a parent would. The guardian is in charge of all aspects of the child’s care, which includes, but is not limited to: food, shelter, clothing, safety, education, medical care, and physical and emotional growth. If the guardianship is in place for two or more years, a presumption in favor of adoption may be applied by the courts.

• Does guardianship have to occur through the court?

Yes. To become a legal guardian, the California Probate Court must conduct legal proceedings and approve the guardianship. The person who must initiate the process is the guardian/caregiver, not the parent.

• Is there anything I can do to prepare for a potential guardianship now, without actually starting the legal process until an emergency arises?

Yes. Parents may prepare Form GC-211 to nominate a person to be the guardian of a child, and refrain from filing it with the court unless the need arises. Many parents may find it helpful to consult with an attorney; preferably one specialized in family law and/or immigration law, in order to begin this process. Please see the Appendix for a sample Form GC-211.

• How can I receive assistance with requesting a guardianship?

In Orange County, CA, persons who cannot afford an attorney can receive assistance through the Orange Court Probate’s Court Self Help Attorney’s at: Central Justice Center: 700 Civic Center Drive West, Santa Ana, CA 92701. Orange County’s Public Law Center also holds a free Guardianship Clinic Mondays from 12:30pm to 4:00pm at the same location (Central Justice Center).

• What can I expect from the guardianship process?

The process of appointing a guardian is a legal process that requires approval from the Probate Court. Typically, after a petition is filed, the court will schedule a hearing where the proposed guardians, child, and parents must appear.

If the guardian is a relative, the court will order an investigation to be conducted by an employee of the court. The investigation that may involve lengthy interviews, a home visit, and background check of everyone in the proposed guardianship’s household. The investigator will make a recommendation to the judge, and the judge will consider the best interests of the child in evaluating whether to appoint a guardianship or not.

If the guardian is not a relative of the child, the case will be referred to the county’s human or social services department, which may conduct a similar investigation.
• Are there any fees to seek a guardianship? If so, are there waivers available?

Yes, there are court costs, namely the Court’s filing fee and the Court Investigator’s Fee. Information for all costs related to guardianships is available at the following website: http://www.occourts.org/general-public/fee-schedule/#probate.

Persons who cannot afford the court’s fees and costs can apply for a waiver. Fee waiver can be requested through filing Forms FW-001-GC and FW-003-GC and should be filed at the first floor of the Central Justice Center: 700 Civic Center Drive West, Santa Ana, CA 92701. The judge must approve the fee waiver.

Children who are 12 years old and older can petition the court for a guardianship, and are exempt from filing fees.7

• Do I need an attorney for a guardianship?

An attorney is not required for guardianship proceedings, but some families may wish to hire an attorney to navigate the process.

- What is a temporary guardianship?

  A temporary guardianship exists for a limited period of time, before the court decides whether to grant a regular guardianship. Temporary guardianship can only be requested as part of regular guardianship proceedings; individuals cannot seek temporary guardianships only. Temporary guardianships terminate once the purpose of the temporary guardianship has been fulfilled.

  Temporary guardianships are usually filed if there is an emergency during guardianship proceedings where the parent is not able to perform his/her parental obligations and as such require a relative or nonrelative to take over such obligations. Sometimes when there is an emergency the guardianship needs to be filed quickly, such as if the child needs immediate medical treatment; must enroll in school; if both parents become unavailable due to incarceration (including immigration detention) or incapacity, or if the child’s parent is also a minor.\(^8\)

  Per California Probate Code Section 2250, the petition for temporary guardianship requires the person seeking temporary guardianship to "state facts which establish good cause for appointment of the temporary guardianship." In these emergencies, "good cause" means the individual must have a very good reason to ask for temporary guardianship, such as the examples listed above.\(^9\)

  Guardianship forms are available on the OC Courts’ Self-Help website.\(^10\)

- How can a guardianship be terminated?

  In order to terminate the guardianship, a petition requesting termination of the guardianship must be filed with the Probate Court, and the Court must order such termination.

Unless you direct otherwise above, this power of attorney is effective immediately and will continue until it is revoked.

This power of attorney will continue to be effective even though I become incapacitated.

Look at the numbers at the top of a form to match them with the form numbers listed below. You can use this form as a checklist.

* Appointment of a guardian for a Native American child is subject to special requirements that are not discussed in these instructions. See item 14 on the next page.

I want to become a guardian of a child. What forms do I need to file with the court?

1. Fill out, sign, and file with the court either of the following form petitions ("your petition"):
   - Form GC-210(P), Petition for Appointment of Guardian of the Person (recommended if you won’t have an attorney to help you); or
   - Form GC-210, Petition for Appointment of Guardian of Minor.

2. Fill out the following forms and attach them to or file them separately with your petition:
   - Attach to your petition a separate copy of Form GC-210(CA), Guardianship Petition—Child Information Attachment, for each child you think needs a guardian.
   - Sign and attach to your petition one copy of Form FL-105/GC-120, Declaration Under Uniform Child Custody Jurisdiction and Enforcement Act (UCCJEA), for all children you think need a guardian.
   - Sign and file separately with your petition Form GC-212, Confidential Guardian Screening Form. This form is confidential, under the direct control of the court, and not available to the general public.
   - If required by your court, sign and file separately with your petition, Form GC-211, Consent of Proposed Guardian (item 1 of that multi-purpose form, at the top of the page). Many courts don't require that form if you are asking for your own appointment as guardian, so check with your court before you file it.
   - File separately with your petition any local forms your court wants you to file with your petition (check your court's local rules and guidelines for information and instructions about these forms).

What must I do if I want the court to appoint someone other than myself as guardian?

3. Instead of filling out and signing Form GC-212, listed above in Step 2, ask the person you want the court to appoint as guardian to fill out and sign that form.

4. Instead of signing item 1 of Form GC-211, listed above in Step 2, ask the person you want the court to appoint as guardian to sign item 1 of that form. Many courts don't require that form if the person you want as guardian signs your petition (as an additional petitioner), so check with the court on the need to file that form if that person signed your petition. See page 2 of this form to learn about use of another part of Form GC-211.

What can I do if I can't afford to pay the court's filing fees?

5. Fill out, sign, and file Form FW-001, Application for Waiver of Court Fees and Costs, and fill cut and give the court clerk Form FW-003, Order on Application for Waiver of Court Fees and Costs, for the judge to sign.

What happens when I file my petition and the other forms listed above?

The court clerk will give you a case number, a date and time when, and a courtroom or department of the court where the judge will hear your request to appoint a guardian. Take an extra copy of your petition and the other papers you must file to the court when you file the originals and ask the clerk to stamp the filing date and case number on your copies and note the hearing date and place on your copy of the petition. Some courts will require you to give the clerk one or more extra copies of your papers, so check with your court before you go to the court to file the papers.
Forms You Need to Ask the Court to Appoint a Guardian of the Person

What forms do I need after I file my petition and have a hearing date?

6. If either or both of the child's parents or any other person you must notify of the hearing on your petition will agree with your request for appointment of a guardian, fill out and have each of them date and sign item 4 at the bottom of Form GC-211, Consent to Appointment of Guardian and Waiver of Notice. File the form with the court when you file the Notice of Hearing, discussed below.

What must I do before the court hearing on my petition?

You must arrange for someone other than yourself to notify certain people about your petition and the court hearing and show the court that he or she has done so. Read Form GC-510, What is "Proof of Service" in a Guardianship, and:

7. Fill out the first page of Form GC-020, Notice of Hearing—Guardianship or Conservatorship.

8. Follow the instructions in Form GC-510 for personal delivery ("personal service") of copies of your petition and the Notice of Hearing and showing the court that personal service has been made ("proving service").

9. Follow the instructions in Form GC-510 for mailing ("service by mail") copies of your petition and the Notice of Hearing and showing the court that service by mail has been made ("proving service").

10. File with the court at least 5 days before the hearing, the original Form GC-020, with attached original filled-in proofs of personal and mailed service, signed by the person(s) who delivered and mailed the papers.

11. Fill out and deliver the following forms to the court at or before the hearing on your petition (check your court's local rules for the deadlines for delivery of these forms to the court):
   - Form GC-240, Order Appointing Guardian of Minor (the judge will sign this Order at or shortly after the hearing on your petition if he or she grants your request for appointment of a guardian).
   - Form GC-248, Duties of Guardian and Acknowledgment of Receipt (you or any other person the court has appointed as guardian must sign this form and the form must be filed with the court before the clerk will sign and file the Letters of Guardianship (see below)); and
   - Form GC-250, Letters of Guardianship (the court clerk will sign and file the original of this form, often called "Letters," and will give you (for a fee) certified copies that you, or any other person the court has appointed as guardian, must have to show legal authority to act as the child's guardian).

12. Fill out and file any local forms your court requires at or before the hearing on your petition (check your court's local rules for information about these forms, deadlines for filing them, and requirements for service of copies to other persons interested in the case).

Need help?

13. Your court may have a self-help center or a volunteer assistance program that can help you with a guardianship, or the court may be able to refer you to other organizations in your area that can help you.

14. If you can get on the Internet, you can go to the California Courts Self-Help Center Web site, at www.courtinfo.ca.gov/selfhelp/family/guardianship (English) or www.courtinfo.ca.gov/selfhelp/espanol/familia/tutela (Spanish). This Web site provides information about the guardianship process, including information about what you need to do if the child in your case is a Native American or has a Native American ancestor, and information about other resources available to you. You can also download a copy of Form GC-205, Guardianship Pamphlet and all the forms mentioned above. The pamphlet has a basic explanation of a guardianship. It is available in Spanish and several other languages. You can even fill out the necessary forms on your computer while visiting this site and print them out ready for signing and filing, free of charge.

15. You can also go to www.courtinfo.ca.gov/courts/trial/courtslist.htm to access your court's Web site. This site can tell you where to file your forms and go for court hearings and can advise you about the court's rules and practices you need to know during the progress of your case. You can also download copies of the court's local forms.
